DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is in response to amendment filed 10/26/05

Response to Amendment

- 2. Claims1-3, 5-12,18-22, 24-38 have been amended.
- 3. Claims 1-3, 5-22, 24-38 are currently pending.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejections.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- 5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
 - The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 6. Claims 1-3, 5-22, 24-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Exemplary claim 1 is analyzed. This analysis also applies to independent claims 20 (product) which incorporates the process of claim 1.

Claim 1 is vague and unclear lacking clarity due to the following reasons:

Step (d) recites calculating target position information for each of one or more trading models.

This step renders the claimed invention vague and indefinite because there no correlation of this step with the asset being evaluated. The trading models can provide different outputs depending on the input being provided. Step (d) fails to specify on what basis the "one or more" trading models will calculate the "target position information".

This step is also indefinite because the phrase "one or more" which suggests multiple permutations and combinations trading models for calculating the target position.

Step (b) recites the parameter "current system position" information without specifying any correlation to the asset being evaluated.

Step (e) is vague because it recites that a bid/ask quote is calculated in response to the quote request information using (at least) a hedging method without specifying the specific relationship of the hedging method to the subject asset whose quote is being calculated. Without defining this correlation, the claim is rendered vague and indefinite because it suggests that any hedging method can be implemented in the claimed invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

7. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-3, 5-22, 24-38 are rejected under 35 USC 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Exemplary claim 1 is analyzed. This analysis also applies to independent claims 20 (product) which incorporates the process of claim 1.

Application/Control Number:

09/764,366 Art Unit: 3693

Claims 1-3, 5-22, 24-38 are directed to abstract idea without practical application.

Under the Interim Guidelines for Examination of Patent Applications for Patent Subject Matter Eligibility a claimed invention must satisfy the requirement that it be directed to a "practical application". In order to meet this requirement, the claimed invention physically transforms an article or physical object to a different state or thing, or ... the claimed invention otherwise produces a useful, concrete, and tangible result.

The claim invention is a process performed by a computer that calculates a bid/ask quote in response to various received inputs and target position information for each of one or more trading models.

The claimed invention must provide a practical application of a judicial exception:

- o Physical Transformation, OR
- o Produce A Useful, Concrete, and Tangible Result

The claimed invention is a method that process data and calculated a bid/ask quote based on certain parameters. Therefore, the test of physical transformation is not applicable. Therefore, the claim is analyzed to determine if it produces a "useful, concrete and tangible result".

The claimed invention encompasses any and all types of assets amenable to market making (para [0024] of the disclosure]. The claimed invention fails to specify the relationship of the "current system position" to the asset being processed for bid/ask quote. The claimed invention recites that the one more trading model in step (d) calculate "target position information" without providing any connection between the trading models and the asset price data. The term "one or more trading models" raises the issue of indefiniteness because the target position depends on the specific model(s) being used. The claim does not define the trading model in terms of the asset parameters. It broadly recites that "target position information" is calculated for "one or more" trading models. This would produce "one or more target position information". Which of the latter is being applied to step (e) in calculation of the bid/ask quote?

The claim recites that step (e) calculates bid/ask quote using "a hedging method" without defining the hedging method. Thus, any hedging method may be used by a person who practices the invention.

Application/Control Number:

09/764,366 Art Unit: 3693

Based on the foregoing analysis it is concluded that the claimed invention is not concrete in that a result cannot be assured or is not reproducible since it would depend on the unknowns identified above.

Since the claimed invention fails to meet at least one requirement of the "useful, concrete and tangible" test of practical application, the claims are interpreted as being directed to an abstract idea and hence rejected under 35 USC 101 as non-statutory subject matter.
